In Memoriam

In the past year, VSA was saddened to learn of the passing of two of VSA’s founding members who helped set the direction and build the strong foundation on which our organization continues to build. Join VSA in honoring the memory and the legacy of Chan Screven and Pat Shettel at the Welcome Reception on Wednesday, July 25 and during the VSA President’s opening remarks on Thursday, July 26.
Dear Visitor Studies Conference Attendees:

Welcome to Raleigh and the 25th Annual Conference of the Visitor Studies Association! Twenty-five years ago, a hearty group of nearly 100 research-practitioners came together in Anniston, Alabama for the first conference devoted to visitor studies – organized and convened by Steve Bitgood and Arlene Benefield. Your experience at this year’s conference will represent the exciting growth of work and ideas started at that very first conference.

Knowing Our Past, Shaping Our Future: What’s Next for Visitor Studies?

In this milestone year, we would like to reflect on our past, celebrate our achievements as a community, and appraise our current work within the context of cultural institutions and their communities. As Visitor Studies has grown from a passionate group of research-practitioners interested in studying the visitor experience and informal learning, to a burgeoning, multi-disciplinary field, the time has come to dialog about how visitor studies can help envision and shape the role of museums within our increasingly diverse and complex societies.

Planned sessions and events have been organized with a nod towards where we have been and where we are going as an organization. We hope through attending lively sessions, listening to our exciting speakers, or simply connecting with colleagues new and old, you get a sense of where VSA is headed. In line with our call, we hope this year’s conference helps you address the following questions in your work: How can institutions continue to be relevant to a wide range of audiences when facing the challenges of creating community value and low funding? In what ways can we use the work we are doing right now to address the future of museums, zoos, nature centers, visitor centers, historic sites, parks, and other cultural institutions and attractions? In what new ways can we engage visitors in conversations about contemporary social concerns that are important to them?

As you think about these questions, be aware that sessions, events, and activities emphasizing our 25th anniversary conference theme and celebration are highlighted with \( VSA \) throughout this program.

Our Raleigh Hosts

One of the benefits of VSA Conference attendance is the changing venue each year. This year we are pleased to have Raleigh, North Carolina as our host city. It is an opportunity to learn of a community rich in heritage and offerings. Our Raleigh hosts have planned three evening events at a number of local institutions, starting with a VSA Silver Anniversary Celebration at the North Carolina Museum of Art.

In addition to the events planned by our hosts, we will be hosting the 16th Annual April Award Luncheon, the Meet the Committees Happy Hour, and the Closing Luncheon. Consult this program for times and locations of these significant events.

We hope you learn, interact with others, and enjoy this conference. Do feel free to share your suggestions and thoughts with VSA about the 2013 conference that will be in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. We hope to see you there!

With warmest regards,

Your Program Co-Chairs
Robert Jakubowski, Ross Loomis, and Theano Moussouri

Welcome to Raleigh: VSA Silver Conference Celebration at the North Carolina Museum of Art

Event hosted and sponsored by North Carolina Museum of Art and Raleigh Trolley.

Join VSA and the North Carolina Museum of Art as we kick off the celebration of 25 years of VSA conferences. Heavy hors d’oeuvres and beverages will be served in the foyer, with live music as entertainment. The event will also feature “silver anniversary” cupcakes for dessert and lighthearted “remember when” memories of conferences past. Museum docents will be available to take guests on tours of the superb collection, which includes more than 5,000 years of artwork. The 164-acre Museum Park is home to more than a dozen monumental works of art, with artists actively involved in the integration of art into the Park’s natural systems and restoration of its landscape.

Pre-registration is required. Evening includes entertainment, hors d’oeuvres, drinks, and dessert. Event ticket also includes transportation from the Sheraton Raleigh Hotel.

The Raleigh Trolley will begin a shuttle at 6:00 p.m. from the Main Entrance of the Sheraton.

25th Anniversary Celebration

2012 marks a major milestone for the Visitor Studies Association – 25 years of bringing our community together for discussion, idea sharing, and professional growth through the VSA Annual Conference. We hope you will join us in celebrating this milestone throughout the conference. Events in the program that are part of this celebration and reflection are denoted with a special icon.

Other conference features that you can look for throughout the conference include:

Badge Marker: How many VSA conferences have you attended?

During your next hallway conversation, take note of how many of the 25 conferences your colleague has attended. Make our first-timers feel welcome, and try to find a member who has been to all 25 conferences!

Remember When: Most Memorable VSA Conference Moments

Remember when Kathy McLean performed an interpretive dance in a plenary session? Throughout the conference’s plenary sessions, evening events, and luncheons, we will share some of members’ favorite, funniest, and most powerful VSA conference memories. Visit the Memory Wall in the Registration Area to read others’ fond VSA memories and to add your own!

VSA Trivia

How many founding VSA board members are at the 2012 conference? Which city brought in VSA’s highest conference attendance? In how many countries does VSA have members? Test your VSA knowledge with the VSA Trivia questions shown during plenary sessions and events.

Finally, don't miss VSA's new Silent Auction! Check the VSA website and your conference tote bag for more information.

Conference Schedule

Presentation Formats

This year’s conference features a variety of presentation formats. Please review the list below to learn more about the kinds of presentations you can attend:

Panel Presentations / Forum Discussions
Panel presentations are full sessions on a single theme. The session includes several panelists who examine an issue, topic, problem, or theme from a variety of perspectives. Panel discussions reserve sufficient time in their sessions for audience discussion about the topic.

Individual Presentations
These sessions include 3 presentations on separate, but related, topics. Each speaker gives a 15-20 minute presentation about his/her project. The session chair moderates the session and facilitate audience discussion and Q&A for all presenters.

Innovative / Alternative Format Sessions
Sessions of this type have proposed alternative, innovative formats for their presentations, with the goal of increasing audience participation in support of furthering discussion of a key topic.

Poster Presentations
Individual presenters provide graphic displays and are present for one-on-one discussions about specific studies or projects. All posters will be presented during a single session that will take place in the Hannover I & II Ballroom on Friday, July 27 from 3:15 – 4:15 p.m.

---

Thursday, July 26

8:30 – 10:30 a.m.

Welcoming Remarks, Reflections and Opening Keynote

Dan Spock

Hannover I & II
Sponsored by the Franklin Institute

Dan Spock, Director of the Minnesota History Center Museum at the Minnesota Historical Society, will talk about how a relentless preoccupation with studying and learning from museum-goers over 30 years of museum work has informed the development of his public-centered ethic while coinciding with the growth of the importance of visitor studies in the field. Dan will recall growing up as the son of Michael Spock during his trailblazing years in the Sixties at the Boston Children’s Museum where Dan was a testing guinea pig in the development of some of his dad’s breakout interactive exhibits. He will talk about how this peculiar childhood gave him a hands-on immersion in the things that make museums wonderful. Dan began his own museum career inauspiciously as a guard at the Adler Planetarium, a job he hated, but in retrospect he sees how his casual observations there taught him early important lessons about what museum visitors do and prefer. Later, he worked at his father’s museum repairing exhibits, which unexpectedly blossomed into a fantastic apprenticeship in the audience-centered culture of the Boston Children's Museum. The mentoring he received there, along with his first forays into visitor research as an exhibit designer, informed everything he’s done since.

Spock will comment on the challenge of applying his training and research methodology to public history and how it has shaped his work with exhibits and community projects that confront museum habits of thinking. He’ll conclude with the discovery, based on visitor research, of the critical role empathy and storytelling plays in the public’s understandings of the past and how this has led him to a compassionate practice of museum tradecraft.

Sponsored by Randi Korn & Associates.

11:00 a.m. – 12:15 p.m.
Concurrent Sessions – 1

Art + Science = New Engaged Communities
Capital Room
Panelists: Ellen Gusti, John Fraser, Alan Friedman, and Lisa Roberts
Science is often overwhelming and so complex that people turn off, abdicating their civic responsibility to understand and respond to a range of serious issues. This session focuses on art-science collaborations that appeal to non-traditional science learners. Visitor studies explore the power of the arts to engage communities around scientific topics/issues.

Using Capacity Building to Enhance Informal Learning in Museum Exhibits
Governors Room II
Panelists: Max McDaniel, Kate Betz, and Taylor Overstreet
This session focuses on enhancing informal learning in museum environments through partnerships between museum staff and evaluators. Specifically, this session explains the importance of internal capacity building in evaluation and presents a roadmap to conducting research that enhances visitor learning and builds internal evaluation skills.

VSA Looking Forward: An Invitation for Member Input
Governors Room I
Panelists: Dale McCreedy, Emlyn Koster, Randi Korn, Joe Heimlich, Rita Deedrick, and Vance Yoshida
As VSA looks to the future, questions about international scope, internal structure, outreach to target audiences, and cultural context arise. Learn about and then participate in discussions about the topic you care about most. Help shape VSA’s future!

Investigating Interaction and Change in the Visitor Experience
Hannover III
Chair: Kris Morrissey
Giving and Receiving: A Case Study of an Interactive Exhibit
Lynne Carmichael
An interactive exhibit at Te Papa is studied from the dual perspective of the exhibition team and the visitors. Evidence emerged of the complex and long reaching-effect that the physical environment had on the visitors and the “ripple effect” of that visit on their wider social circle.

Families Talking about Ecology at Touch Tanks
Chuck Kopczak
Little is known about what occurs when families visit touch tank exhibits at aquariums and zoos. This study sought to determine if they talk about ecological topics, and the depth of their conversations. While ecological talk does occur, it is not common, but staff facilitation can increase its occurrence.

Investigation to Action: Successes and Lessons Learned in Measuring Behavior Change
Kathryn Owen and Mary Jackson
This session will describe the efforts of a large urban zoo over the past five years to engage its audience in conservation behaviors and actions. Successes, failures, and lessons learned from ongoing evaluation of these efforts will be presented.

Development Committee Meeting
Hannover III

2:30 – 3:45 p.m.
Concurrent Sessions — 2

Discussing Repeat Visitors: Supporting Repeat Use through Products
Hannover III
Presenters: Marjorie Bequette, Al Onkka, and Scott Van Cleave
What can ILE organizations do, in a 21st century full of increasingly complex systems, multimodal environment designs, and continued population segregation, to continuously draw visitors back? Using a number of evaluations from SMM, we will jump into a discussion of the evaluative issues in recognizing, studying, and understanding repeat audiences.

Responding to the Needs of Museum Visitors with Cognitive Disabilities
Capital Room
Panelists: Christopher Bell, Tammy Gordon and Amelia Moody
This panel introduces museum educators to cognitive disabilities. It takes an interdisciplinary approach to providing historical background as well as practical ways in which museum educators can meet the needs of visitors with cognitive disabilities.
Studying Web 2.0 Experiences: An Open Source Session

Governors Room I
Panelists: Jeff Grabill, Beck Tench, and Troy Livingston

Peek behind the scenes to see Web 2.0 conversations from a new perspective. Examine and debate different approaches to facilitating online conversations, compare notes on the differences in impact, contribute to an ongoing research project, and take home protocols to join in the research with your organization’s Web 2.0 experiences.

Diversity and Visitor Studies: Barriers, National Identities, and Multiple Worldviews

Governors Room II

Engaging the African American Community: A Qualitative Exploration
Amy Niedbalski and Mike Flynn

African Americans are underrepresented among Saint Louis Zoo visitors. The Zoo sought to understand factors influencing this disparity. To lower costs and gain credibility, predominantly African American churches were used to assist in recruiting and hosting focus groups. An added bonus: by asking churches to help, the community was engaged.

Institutional vs Individual Power: Investigating the St. Barnabas Icon Museum
Theopisiti Stylianou-Lambert and Alexandra Bounia

Museums have the power to negotiate national identities, while individuals have the power to shape personal memories and meanings. This presentation deals with the relationship between institutional and personal power using as an example the St. Barnabas Icon Museum in the North, occupied part of Cyprus.

Evaluation across Multiple Worldviews: Telling the Cosmic Serpent Story
Jill Stein, Shelly Valdez, and Eric Jones

Evaluators from Institute for Learning Innovation and Native Pathways will share their learning from a joint evaluation of the NSF-funded Cosmic Serpent, a professional development program that brings together Indigenous Knowledge and Western Science in museum settings. They will focus on how Indigenous evaluation models were utilized to reflect community voice.

4:00 – 5:15 p.m.
Concurrent Sessions – 3

Designing and Studying Math Exhibits About Ratio and Proportion
Hannover III
Presenters: Steven R. Guberman, Troy Livingston, Molly L. Kelton, Elizabeth Fleming, and Al Onkka

In this session, we present three issues that emerged in our work on Math Core — an NSF-funded collaboration to develop exhibits on ratio and proportion: (a) planning for and studying repeat visitors, (b) researching visitors’ embodied learning, and (c) evaluation . . . when you have a herd of cats.

Ready to Renovate? Models for Evaluating Installed Exhibitions
Capital Room
Panelists: Stephen Bitgood, Mary Jane Taylor, Steve Yalowitz, and Jeanine Ancelet

This session will present frameworks for carrying out renovation-driven exhibition evaluation, including three case studies of such projects carried out for an aquarium, a history museum and an art museum. Panelists hope to begin a much-needed dialogue about terminology and approaches for renovation-based exhibition evaluations.

Forum: Applications of AEA’s Cultural Relevance in Evaluation Statement to VSA
Governors Room II
Panelists: Jill Stein, Joe Heimlich, Shelly Valdez, Christine Reich, and Cecilia Garibay

This open forum discussion will focus on the applicability of AEA’s Cultural Relevance in Evaluation statement (April 2011) to the VSA community. Several experts in the area of cultural responsiveness in evaluation will pose a provocative question or comment, and then we will facilitate a discussion on future directions.

National Museums and the European Citizen
Governors Room I
Panelists: Alexandra Bounia, Jocelyn Dodd, and Pille Pruulmann-Vengerfeldt

This panel presents a visitor studies research undertaken in nine national museums in Europe, within the FP7 program “European National Museums: Identity politics, the uses of the past and the European citizen”. Questionnaires, interviews and focus groups provided thought-provoking insights into visitors’ ideas and views on the national museums of Europe.

6:15 – 9:15 p.m.

Celebrate North Carolina’s Past, Present, and Future with a Traveling Reception at the North Carolina Museum of History and the North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences $40

Begin the evening by exploring more than 14,000 years of North Carolina’s history and inhabitants at the North Carolina Museum of History, and visit The Story of North Carolina, an exhibition featuring fascinating artifacts and multimedia presentations. Enjoy appetizers and beverages while Civil War and Revolutionary War re-enactors regale with tales of North Carolina’s pasts. Enjoy a second course of traditional North Carolina BBQ at the largest natural history museum of its kind in the Southeast. The North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences features an array of exhibits that encourage visitors to explore the natural world and their connections to it. From there, the reception will move across the street for dessert at the Museum’s brand new, 80,000-square-foot wing, the Nature Research Center. With state-of-the-art laboratories, interactive exhibits, and high-tech, dynamic presentation spaces, the Nature Research Center demystifies science and helps visitors understand the practical applications of science research in their daily lives.

Evening includes appetizers, dinner, drinks, dessert, entertainment, and two complimentary drink tickets. Cash bar will be available. The North Carolina Museum of History is located 0.6 miles north of the hotel at 15 East Edenton Street.

Event hosted and sponsored by the North Carolina Museum of History and the North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences.

VSA Business Meeting
Hannover I & II
Join fellow members and colleagues for the latest VSA news to find out what is in store for the organization in the coming year and vote on matters of importance to the Association. VSA President Dale McCreedy will discuss recent changes at VSA, including the work in organizational and strategic planning and growth for the future.

9:00 – 10:15 a.m.

Keynote Address
Alison Kadlec
Hannover I & II
Sponsored by the Franklin Institute

Alison Kadlec, Senior Vice President, Director of Public Engagement Programs, and Director for the Center for Advances in Public Engagement at Public Agenda, will talk about how she thinks about accountability and case-making when it comes to museums. While most of her comments will implicitly or explicitly take aim at narrowly construed, excessively quantitative, or externally driven notions of accountability in any context, she believes that in an age of perpetual scarcity of resources, it is incumbent on cultural institutions to articulate their value and actively seek to better understand, document and amplify that value. As an advocate of meaningful democracy, Alison will make the case that museums need to step up and drive the conversations in order to own their power. Alison’s views have been shaped by Deweyan Pragmatism driven first by the idea that a democracy is not to be judged only according to its institutions, but also according to the habits of inquiry and communication it inspires in its citizens. Through her work at Public Agenda, Alison strives to improve the quality of public problem-solving through research, issue framing, engagement, and communications. In this context, Alison will analyze museums as sources of civic innovation and the role of play and playfulness in public life, using science museums as a case study. She will talk about the value of museum experiences in a democracy, particularly in a society like ours in which hostile partisan rhetoric undermines effective problem-solving and in which leaders pander to the worst obstacles.

Alison will engage VSA conference delegates in a discussion of how museums can best respond to Sam Chaltain’s three questions about education: How do people learn best? (actively, together and throughout their lives); What are the essential skills of a free people? (habits of being and habits of mind); What does it mean to be free? (developing the capacity for self-direction).

10:30 – 11:45 a.m.

Concurrent Sessions – 4

I Wish I’d Never Done That
Capital Room
Panelists: Beverly Serrel, Alan Freidman, Ellen Giusti, Theano Moussouri, Mary Ellen Munley, Barbara Soren, and Margie Marino

Senior professionals in the field of visitor studies will speak about mistakes they have made in their careers and what they have learned from them.

Mediated Discourse: Shaping the Future of Visitor Studies Research
Governors Room I
Chair: Peter Linett
Panelists: Peter Linett, Chloe Chittick Patton, and Cecilia Garibay

This session explores how cultural institutions can use research and evaluation to understand audiences who are demographically and attitudinally different from their usual constituency. Drawing from the performing arts and informal learning, the presentation will explore studies in which ethnographic, qualitative, and quantitative methods illuminate the needs and experiences of new audiences.

Observation Across Disciplines: A View From Visitor Studies
Governors Room II
Panelists: Jim Kisiel, Jessica Luke, Jeanine Ancelet, Molly Phipps, and Judy Koke

This session will use evaluation/research studies to engage both panelists and attendees in discussion of “observation” as a desired process skill or learning outcome—from both arts and science perspectives. Specifically, the session will examine similarities and differences (if any) in how observation is situated and identified within each discipline.

Rethinking Evaluation Reports
Hannover III
Panelists: Amy Grack Nelson, Marsha Semmel, and Troy Livingston

Visitor studies methods are evolving, yet evaluation reports remain relatively unchanged. This panel features three different stakeholders: an evaluator, educator, and funder. They will share reporting guidelines based on analysis of studies on informalscience.org, perspectives on integrating public value into reports, and alternative reporting approaches to support reflective practice.
The 2012 April Award recipient is Chris Catanesi, Director of Visitor Experience at New York Historical Society Museum & Library.

Join your colleagues and friends to reaffirm VSA’s commitment to the next generation of visitor studies professionals. We’ll welcome our guest of honor, 2012 April Award recipient Chris Catanesi from the New York Historical Society Museum & Library.

This year’s luncheon speaker is Dr. Steve Bitgood, co-founder of the Visitor Studies Association and co-editor of Visitor Studies: Theory, Research and Practice. Dr. Bitgood is a Professor Emeritus of Psychology at Jacksonville State University. He has spoken and published widely and has undertaken extensive research in exhibition centers (museums, science centres and zoos) focusing on how to increase the impact of exhibits by applying psychological principles. He is the author of Social Design in Museums: The Psychology of Visitor Studies. Dr. Bitgood has been to all 25 VSA conferences and is well-positioned to take luncheon attendees on a journey through time with “A Tribute to the Mothers and Fathers of Visitor Studies.”

The April Award and Student Scholarship programs help bring new talent to the field of visitor studies and the Visitor Studies Association. VSA is pleased to welcome the following recipients to their first Visitor Studies Conference:

16th Annual April Award:
Chris Catanesi, New York Historical Society Museum & Library. Meet Chris at the April Award Luncheon on Friday, July 27.

The April Award was established by Dr. Marilyn (Molly) Hood to honor the memory of her longtime research assistant April Lahm.

2012 Student Scholarships:
Julie Chiu, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Regan Forrest, University of Queensland, Australia
Katie Schroeder, University of Denver

The Student Scholarship program supports first-time conference attendance for active students interested in the field of visitor studies.

A long-term evaluation project at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston invites reflection on the challenges and opportunities inherent in evaluation involving multiple stakeholders in a large arts institution. This session will address collaboration, ongoing roles, and working relationships and the potential for institutional learning about the value of evaluation.

21st Century Learning in Natural History Settings: A Research Agenda
Governors Room I
Panelists: Bill Watson and Shari Werb

Participants will discuss recommendations of the February 2012 NSF-funded conference, 21st Century Learning in Natural History Settings, for 1) the best opportunities to harness the resources of natural history museums and environments for learning in the 21st Century, and 2) a research and evaluation agenda to advance progress toward them.

Art museums and visitor studies haven’t been the closest of kin. Most art museums don’t have an evaluator on staff, and many don’t conduct regular exhibition evaluations. But when they do engage in audience research, it’s sometimes holistic, big-picture, and creative in ways that other museums can learn from. Join us for a lively conversation about what research is teaching art museums about their audiences—and themselves.

Building Capacity in Evaluation: The CAISE Convenings Continue
Governors Room II
Panelists: Kirsten Ellenbogen, Leslie Goodyear, and Rita O’Sullivan

What supports, resources, and innovations are needed to improve the practice of evaluating informal learning environments? Join experts from visitor studies and other areas of evaluation to discuss and prioritize capacity building needs for our field.

Coffee Break
Hannover I & II

3:15 – 4:15 p.m.

Poster Session
Hannover I & II
Sponsored by People, Places, and Design

A Survey of School Field Trip Research Published 2000-2010
Heather Harkins

Children’s Responses to Enhanced Exhibits at a Science Museum
Roger Phillips

Inquiry and Memory of Exhibit Experiences
Lisa Szechter

Interest – The Next Big Concept in Visitor Studies?
Tove I. Dahl

Meet the Committees Happy Hour
VSA’s Membership Committee invites new attendees and all members for a happy hour! This is an informal way to meet and chat with other members and VSA leaders, to learn about VSA committees and how you might get more involved, and to see some nearby bars and local watering holes.

Pre-registration is not required for this event. Food and drinks available for purchase. Visit the registration desk for happy hour locations.

Hollywood in North Carolina! at the Marbles Kids Museum $45
The stars are out in Downtown Raleigh for this reception at Marbles Kids Museum, which inspires imagination, discovery, and learning through extraordinary adventures in play and larger-than-life IMAX experiences. Enjoy heavy hors d’oeuvres and beverages outside under the stars while learning about North Carolina’s bustling movie and TV industry. You can also take a backstage tour of the Wells Fargo IMAX Theatre at Marbles, which features the newest state-of-the-art IMAX 3D projection system, enhanced audio with 24,000 watts of heart-pumping sound, and a higher brilliance 70-foot wide giant screen.

Guests who purchased advance tickets will see the highly-anticipated next chapter in the Batman film series, The Dark Knight Rises, in North Carolina’s only Giant Screen certified IMAX 3D Theatre. The film begins around 7:30.

Evening includes hors d’oeuvres, drinks, and music. Movie screening is an additional cost and tickets must be purchased in advance. The museum is located 0.5 miles northeast of the hotel at 201 East Hargett Street.

Event hosted and sponsored by Marbles Kids Museum.
Conversations Between Girls and Their Parents During Informal Engineering Activities

Governess Room I
Gina Navoa Svarovsky and Zdana Tranby

This roundtable presentation will share and discuss preliminary findings from the Gender Research on Adult-child Discussions in Informal Engineering Environments (GRADIENT) project, which explores the conversations that occur between girls and their parents while engaged in a range of informal engineering activities within museum exhibits and programs.

Involving Practitioners in Research and Evaluation

Governors Room II
Panelists: Scott Pattison, Christine Reich, Lynn Tran, and Paige Simpson

By engaging practitioners in conducting their own research and evaluation, the visitor studies field can play a powerful role in helping to shape the next generation of informal learning practitioners. Drawing from a diversity of perspectives, this session will explore the challenges and benefits of supporting practitioner-led research and evaluation.

Embedding Visitor Studies in the Art Museum Through Museum Studies

Capital Room
Panelists: Ann Rowson Love, Ann Marie Hayes-Hawkinson, Kelsey Picken, and Lauren Connolly

After an overview of an art museum-based graduate museum studies program and the efforts to introduce and embed visitor studies into student and museum staff practices, the presenters will share findings from recent studies. The panelists will address implications for preparing current and future museum professionals to implement visitor studies.

Visitor Experience: Traditional Approaches and Emerging Issues

Hannover III

The Museum Experience for Families with Autism: What We Learned
Lesley Lango, Katie Shanahan, Giuseppe (Pino) Monaco, Mega M. Subramaniam, Paul T. Jaeger, and Beth Ziebarth

This presentation discusses needs and motivations analysis of children within the autism spectrum disorder and their families to visit museums, how electronic resources can contribute to enhance the experience, and plans to operationalize the research results into action plans.

Do Objects Play a Special Role in Knowledge Acquisition?
Daniela Bauer and Constanze Hampp

While Internet and TV are limited to use symbolic systems like texts or pictures, museums are able to present “the real thing.” Using authentic objects to communicate content is part of the self-definition of museums. But does this tradition of displaying knowledge also affect the quality of informal learning?

My TripAdvisor: Mining Social Media for Visitors’ Perceptions
Elizabeth Maurer

While many museums have embraced direct social media, like Facebook, they are less engaged with indirect social media. Conversations that occur on opinion websites before, after, and outside of visits frame public perceptions. Over the next decade, museums will need to better understand indirect social media to develop better visitor experiences.

Distributed Evaluation: Moving Towards Richer and More Meaningful Institutional Collaboration

Governors Room I
Panelists: Gina Navoa Svarovsky, Jane Morgan, Juli Goss, Liz Rosino, and Jenna Lecomte-Hinely

This session will begin by describing a distributed evaluation study conducted by evaluators from three Nanoscale Informal Science Education Network (NISE Net) institutions. Session participants will then rotate through a set of roundtable discussions, each focused on a specific challenge or issue faced by the team during the study.

Embodying Visitors: Analysis Techniques for Investigating Multimodal Interaction in Museums

Hannover III
Panelists: Molly Kelton, Nan Renner, and Suzanne Perin

Museums have long recognized the value of hands-on interactive experiences. This design principle necessitates research and evaluation methods that capture both physical and verbal interaction among people and learning technologies. This interactive session explores multiple approaches to a more full-bodied investigation of acting, speaking, thinking, and learning in museum settings.

Through Their Own Eyes: A Photographic Understanding of Visitor Experiences

Governors Room II
Panelists: Kathryn Schroeder and Kathleen Tinworth

This interactive session describes the development, implementation, and results of a pilot photo study at the Denver Museum of Nature & Science, which explored the visitor experience through images taken by visitors. This session encourages attendees to consider future uses, contexts, and directions for this innovative methodology.

Observation Across Disciplines: A View From Visitor Studies Pathways to Leadership in VSA

Capital Room
Panelists: Laura Huerta Miguus and Marcie Benne

VSA is growing and vibrant thanks to the active participation and input of members like you. With a new strategic vision, VSA is relying on members to make the vision a reality. Meet with VSA officers and committee chairs to explore opportunities to contribute skills and leadership at any level!

Closing Luncheon

Hannover I & II

ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Vice President: David Ucko

BOARD DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE
Chair: Laura Huerta-Migus
Vice Chair: Anna Lindgren-Streicher

Members: Betty Dunckel, Julie Johnson, Janet Rassweiler, and Linda Wilson

The Board Development Committee is charged with ensuring effective board governance of the Association. The committee is responsible for overseeing elections; monitoring and assessing board processes, structures, and roles; and providing board members with the tools and support needed to fulfill their board duties. Specific responsibilities include: developing a board slate that meets the strategic needs of the organization; reviewing board and committee structures and related policies; planning on-going professional development for new and existing board members; and recognizing board members for their contributions.

DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE
Chair: Randi Korn
Vice Chair: Emlyn Koster

Members: Rita Deedrick, Robert “Mac” West, Mira Zergani, Kim Burtnyk, and Conny Graft

The Development Committee designs, oversees, and executes strategies to encourage charitable donations, advertising, sponsorships of conference events, and relationships with grant-making agencies.
CONFERENCE PLANNING COMMITTEE
Chair: Jessica Sickler
Vice Chair: Camellia Sanford

Members: Sarah Cohn, Kelly Lidinsky, and Elee Wood
The Conference Planning Committee oversees the conference site selection, program, and logistics for each annual VSA conference and serves as VSA board liaison for those functions. This committee is responsible for setting the strategy and logistics for future conference site selection. The committee provides guidance to the Conference Team and Local Host Committee, both of which are convened annually to design, recruit, and organize the conference program for the following year.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE
Chair: Cheryl Kessler
Vice Chair: Kathleen Tinworth

Members: Elsa Bailey, Jennifer Borland, Jen DeWitt, Pino Monaco, Saul Rockman, and Nick Visscher
The Professional Development Committee is responsible for providing training and growth opportunities for VSA members and other museum professionals. The committee develops, organizes, and facilitates all training opportunities and professional development for VSA including workshops for VSA members and others interested in the discipline. This committee is responsible for facilitating pre-conference and regional workshops, April Award, and Student Scholarships.

COMMUNICATIONS COMMITTEE
Chair: Rick Bonney
Vice Chair: Elizabeth Bolander

Members: Dorothy Chen Courtin, Daryl Fischer, Susan Foutz, Kate Haley Goldman, Valerie Grabski, Jim Kisiel, Karen Knutson, Troy Livingston, Allison Martin, Pino Monaco, Amy Niedbalski, Liz Rosino, and Kathleen Tinworth
The Communications Committee works to share information about the Visitor Studies Association and its projects to members and to the broader visitor studies community through a variety of media. The committee comprises three subcommittees: Website and Publications, Interactive/Social Media, and Strategic Communications. The committee also provides a liaison to the editorial board of VSA’s journal, Visitor Studies Today.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE
Chair: Marcie Benne

Members: Steve Bitgood, Elizabeth Bolander, Leslie Hartog, Heidi Kartchner, Sara Martinez, Azuka Mumin, Betsy O’Brien, Gayra Ostgaard, Beth Shea, Maia Werner-Avidon, and Renae Youngs
The Membership Committee strives to create accessible and inclusive pathways for joining and engaging with VSA. The committee co-develops a variety of resources and activities to help members get acquainted with each other, share expertise, develop VSA competencies, create VSA experiences, and collaborate to advance the field.
